IRVING AND MONTAGUE.

One of Their Practical Jokes That Scared Their Friends.

In Scott's "The Drama of Yesterday and Today" the author tells of a practical joke played by Henry Irving and Harry Montague upon a number of their friends, and "in its execution was seen the first dawning glimmer of that tragic force that was ultimately to find expression in Hood's 'Dream of Eugene Aram' and 'The Bells.'" Irving and Montague, hitherto the best allies, began to quarrel on their way to a picnic, and their friends feared some tragic consequences. After luncheon both of the men disappeared.

Smale's face turned deadly pale. He felt that his worst fears were being realized. With one wild cry, "They're gone—what on earth has become of them?" he made a dash down the Dargle over the rocks and bowlders, with the remainder of the picnic party at his heels.

At the bottom of a "dreadful hollow behind the little wood" a fearful sight presented itself to the astonished friends. There on a stone sat Henry Irving in his shirt sleeves, his long hair matted over his eyes, his thin hands and white face all smeared with blood, and dangling an open clasp knife.

He was muttering to himself in a savage tone: "I've done it! I've done it! I said I would! I said I would!"

Tom Smale in an agony of fear rushed up to Irving, who waved him on one side with threatening gestures. "For God's sake, man," screamed the distracted Smale, "tell us where he is!"

Irving, scarcely moving a muscle, pointed to a heap of dead leaves and in sepulchral tones cried: "He's there—there! I've done for him! I've murdered him!"

Smale literally bounded to the heap and began flinging aside the leaves in every direction. Presently he found the body of Harry Montague lying face downward. Almost paralyzed with fear, Smale just managed to turn the head around and found Montague convulsed with laughter, with a pocket handkerchief in his mouth to prevent an explosion. Never was better acting seen on any stage.

FOODS OF ITALY.

Huge meaty chestnuts are found everywhere in Italy. Peeled and boiled in a reddish broth seasoned with laurel leaves and caraway seeds, the nuts are palatable. About two dozen of the large kernels are sold for a penny. In both Genoa and Naples the friggitrici are interesting, and some of their specialties are well worth a trial if one can forget the unappetizing appearance of cooks and cooking appliances. One friggitrice attracts attention to a tray of golden balls which she piles in a pyramid. The golden balls are artichokes. They are boiled in salted water until tender and are put in a pan over steam to keep them hot until a customer appears. For threepence the vender will take one from the steaming pan, dry it, dip it into batter and pop it into the hot oil. A moment later a golden brown ball, delicious and crispy on the outside and tender and succulent on the inside, is handed to the purchaser. The frying is managed in such a way that when the fritters are taken from the kettle they are very hot, but so dry on the outside that they scarcely soil the fingers when eaten from the hand. Another friggitrice specialty is that of cheese balls. They are made of paste filled with grated cheese and fried. Mashed chestnuts, rice, chopped chicken and many vegetables are used to vary the fillings for the popular fritos. Some of the frying kettles are portable, and the friggitrici have regular routes like the milkmen, where they tap at the basement door, get their orders, take their tiny bellows and blow up the charcoal until it glows and then cook the breakfast of meat balls or rice cakes or artichokes, which are sent in hot.—Leslie's Weekly.

Sclenodons.

Only two species of that singular insectivorous mammal, the solenodon, are known, one inhabiting Haiti and the other Cuba. They differ chiefly in the color and quality of their fur. Solenodons are quaint looking animals, rather larger than rats, with long flexible snouts and naked tails. They are nocturnal and obtain their food by digging in the soft ground for insects, etc., with their snouts. Their brain capacity is small, and they are said to have the curious habit when hunted by dogs of hiding their heads in the nearest holes and leaving their bodies exposed.

The Clock Was Wrecked.

Biway—Use an alarm clock nowadays? Jigsup—No; never tried one but once. Biway—How was that? Jigsup—Well, you see, the first time it went off I didn't exactly know what it was, and so I said, "Oh, for heaven's sake, Maria, shut up!" Maria happened to be awake, and—well, that is how it was.—Liverpool Mercury.

Chivalrous Chicago.

In Chicago more than in any other place is woman regarded in the light of a thing of beauty and a joy forever. There is hardly a man in Chicago who does not esteem feminine loveliness as something beyond price—something to live for, to strive for, to suffer for and if necessary to die for.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A Historical Mystery Solved.

The man in the iron mask explained. "I let my wife cut my hair," he sobbed.

Herewith all tendered him respectful sympathy.—New York Sun

MOHAIR AND ALPACA.

These Fabrics Come From Two Entirely Different Animals.

"The other day I heard a couple of men arguing about mohair and alpaca, one of them gravely asserting that they were different names for the same fabric," said a New York importer.

"The assertion was very far out of the way. The cloth known as alpaca, if genuine, comes from the wool of the animal of the same name, which thrives only in the Andean regions of Peru and Chile in South America. The alpaca, or paco, which resembles the llama, looks a good deal like our domestic sheep and has a most beautiful fleece. Great flocks of them browse on the highest ranges of the Andes and are the property of the native Indians, who shear them once a year. Many efforts have been made to breed the alpaca in different parts of Europe and Australia, but without success. A cargo of them was brought to Baltimore some time in the middle of the last century, but the experiment of raising them in the United States was likewise a failure.

"The cloth known as mohair comes from the Angora goat, a very different animal from the alpaca. The angora is found in South Africa, but the largest flocks are found in Asia Minor."—Exchange.

PARIS AND LONDON.

Contrasts In People and Manners In the Two Great Capitals.

In the streets French traffic all goes to the right; London coachmen drive always to the left. Parisians live together in large houses like barracks; Londoners have one family in a house. The Londoner has a latchkey, the Frenchman a concierge.

Paris has its cafes, London its clubs. Parisian beds are up in an alcove in the wall; Londoners sleep in the middle of the room. Londoners take three or four meals a day, Parisians two.

Paris dines, London eats. Paris loaves are long, London loaves are square. Paris drinks wine, London beer. Paris takes coffee, London tea.

Frenchmen while dining talk to their neighbor and enjoy each other's society; Britons sit alone at table and don't say much, but enjoy their food.

London workmen work in their ordinary clothes, call each other "mate," smoke clay pipes and punch each other's heads occasionally; Parisian workmen do their business in blouses, call their friends "citizen" or "sir," smoke cigarettes, take their hats off to each other and do their fighting with their feet.—London Tit-Bits.

Defective Education.

An old darky in Alabama called across the fence to his neighbor's son, who is a student at the Atlanta university, says a writer in the Philadelphia Ledger.

"Look hyar, boy," he said, "you goes to school, don't yer?"

"Yes, sir," replied the boy.

"Getting education, ain't yer?"

"Yes, sir."

"Larning 'rithmetic an' figgering on a slate, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, it don' tak two whole days ter make an hour, do it?"

"Why, no," answered the boy.

"Waal," said the old man, "you was going ter bring that hatchet back in an hour, wasn't yer? An' hit's been two whole days sence you borrered hit.

"What's the use of yo' education ef you go ter school a whole year an' den can't tell how long hit takes ter fetch back dat hatchet?"

African Natives' Drum Signals.

All through the continent of Africa the natives have a very perfect system of signaling with drums, by which means they rap out messages from village to village, and it is quite wonderful how swiftly and how far they are able to spread news.

The drumming is always done at night, when sound travels farther, and as one lies awake on a still, clear night the ear is often gently assailed by the low, musical roll from a drum in the village near, and one waits with pleasant expectancy till the answering echo comes, muffled by distance, from a village sometimes two miles away.—Wide World Magazine.

Bohemia.

Bohemia is youth. Youth is everywhere. It is bounded on the north and east by the barren desert of middle age and on the south and west by the steep and impassable mountains of success. The true bohemian is drunk on nothing but ambitions and ideals, and, though these leave no headache, they frequently leave an emptiness of the stomach. The true bohemian has an appetite the morning after, but there is often no breakfast.—Sydney Bulletin.

Public Opinion.

Public opinion is a will-o'-the-wisp. It is here today and gone tomorrow. Public opinion crucified the Christ, and the centuries have condemned it for its act. Ever since that time the public has been making blunders, committing crimes, furnishing the evidence of its own unwisdom in every time and country.—Boston Herald.

Business Sense.

"Has that titled son-in-law of yours any business sense?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Dustinstax. "I must say I admire his foresight and sagacity. He absolutely refused to take any chances on my regarding him as a poor relation."—Washington Star.

A cynic says that the jaws of death have no terror for him; he only fears the jaws of life. He is married.—Sporting Times.

A Wash Twice a Year.

A charming Hungarian countess once said to me, "What is so nice about the men from England is that they look so clean, as if they had just come from a swim." Of course we pride ourselves on our morning tubs, splash and splutter and shiver and polish up with rough towels. "What dirty people those English are," remarked an Italian, "when they find it necessary to wash all over every day! Why, I only wash twice a year!" I have met Chinese who regard washing all over as a proceeding decidedly improper. A Chinese is washed when he is born, and he has no other altogether wash till he is dead. But we British people have adopted cleanliness only of recent years. Small houses have their bathrooms, but very few houses built over half a century ago were provided with bathrooms. I suppose those must have been the days of the Saturday night wash in the kitchen. Certainly our gay cavalier ancestors in silks and ruffles must have been a dirty gang. Handkerchiefs were not invented, and the velvet cloaks must often have been greasy. The rollicking old times were very dirty old times.—"Baths, Pleasant and Otherwise."

The Don't Worry Theory.

The usual advice given to the worrier is, "Don't worry." This advice is foolish because impractical. No one can stop thinking one type of thought except by substituting for it another. Besides, it is dangerous advice, for, even supposing one could mechanically put an end to a worrying state of mind, he would simply be like an engineer who should plant himself on the safety valve of his engine. The energy expended in worry, turned inward on itself, would tear the mental mechanism to pieces. No! What the worried man or woman needs evidently is to be taught how to find a healthful outlet for his or her nervous power thus going to waste. If we say "Don't worry," let us also be careful to add, "But work," and let us also point out what kind of work should be undertaken and the spirit in which it ought to be done. In other words, what the worrier needs is re-education.—Rev. S. S. McComb in Harper's Bazar.

Jefferson Davis' Ambition.

Jefferson Davis was a man of most sincere conviction and courageous action, and when the Southern Confederacy was about to be organized his single ambition was the command of the Confederate army. This I had from his own lips at his residence at Beauvoir, Miss., some fifteen years after the war. He told me that when he started for Montgomery, Ala., when the movement began for the organization of the Confederacy he hoped to be called to the command of the army, but before he reached Montgomery he was advised of his election as provisionary president. When he reached the new capital of the Confederacy he found it impossible to change conditions, and he was compelled to accept the presidency, and he entered upon that duty as conscientiously as any public man ever entered upon an official career.—Colonel A. K. McClure in "Confederate Veterans."

A Yoga Story.

For fourteen years Bava Luchman Dass received from the priests of the Black Caves of central India the necessary education in order to become a yoga, as a yoga must be capable of taking the forty-eight postures of the Hindoo idols. Perhaps the greatest trick consists in balancing himself on the ends of his fingers while the whole of his body is in the air. Bava stated that in order to obtain the rank of yoga in the Black Caves of India he had to continue in this position on the ends of his fingers under the eyes of the Judges, without a second's interval, for seven days and nights!—Strand Magazine.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound.

If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held sacredly confidential.

A Gleam of Our Possibilities

SONOMA has demonstrated that she has all the necessary civic pride to forge ahead in the ranks of successful municipalities, but she needs to be properly aroused to the importance of advancement. Whenever the occasion requires this valley rises to it and responds in a magnificent and successful manner. The celebration on Wednesday was a sermon finely illustrative of getting results in Sonoma. It shows what can be done. Our people are neither mean nor devoid of energy, but leadership is what they require. The way must be pointed out to them and enthusiasm must get into their systems. This could be accomplished if those already alive to Sonoma's interests would organize and become a live working promotion committee. What the valley needs above all is to interest capital in our possibilities. When the electric lines were talked of we were then in close touch with the valley's future. The time was not ripe and the financial outlook too uncertain for immediate success then, but it is coming. When we shall have electric lines running through this beautiful section, then can we look for our land to increase in value and our farms find purchasers from the well-to-do homeseekers. Meanwhile we must work in harmony. Do not promote discord, for that cannot keep Sonoma in its present stage of transition. The good will of all the people of the valley tends toward success, and whenever we have a cosmopolitan non-sectarian, non-fraternal movement, it is a success. Let us apply this to larger movements, as we have to the perfecting of the holiday just celebrated, and watch Sonoma grow.

Block-improvement societies are an innovation in civic work which seems to foster just enough sectional rivalry to make townsmen sit up and take notice that their fellow citizens are outdoing them in the improvement of their immediate environment. While more applicable in the larger cities, the idea of getting each block or, say street in a town interested in improving its part of the municipality is an excellent one. Generalities are seldom taken to heart, and what is every one's business is nobody's business. Therefore where a few are gotten at personally, the results when reckoned as a whole, will undoubtedly tend to show better work. The neighborhoods, according to the new idea, are admonished to plant flowers and trees, whitewash and paint, clean up their premises and report negligence as to drainage.

In our own town we have seen what good example will do but there is a wide range for widespread example. Let the good work go on.

The Grape Has Troubles of It's Own.

There was joy in the vineyards—'midst the grapes 'twas intense,
For Sbarboro has taken a stand in defense
Of the whole bunch of grapes he has written a tract
That for truth and good sense is adjudged most exact.

Ye sensitive grape has long since been wracked
By the language of critics, who roundly attacked
The ultimate end, evolution perfected,
The downfall of wines they had elected.

Then Sbarboro came forth with the Gospel of Vine,
And critics combat his eloquence fine;
So if you now hear of the grape being crushed
Toward this very sad end it was certainly rushed.

Into discussion 'twas undoubtedly drawn,
Being pressed for an answer it did forcibly dawn
Upon Tokay and Muscat Prohibition was on.
Alternatives, too, confronted the bunch
To ferment their troubles, or else take the hunch
To dry up demurely like the raisin we munch.

THE significance of the sale of Sonoma Valley mineral waters to the leading hospitals and sanitariums of San Francisco should not be underestimated by all those who are interested in the valley's future. The water is being recommended and used by prominent physicians and their patients, and in its natural still state is being shipped in growing quantities to the distributors on orders from hospitals whose testimonials will make it famous.

PATRONIZE the advertising home merchant to the exclusion of the itinerant peddler and remote merchant. The dollars spent with the former remain in your midst, and go towards the upbuilding of the locality in which you reside, while those expended with the latter never return, but go towards the upbuilding of some other locality to the exclusion of your own. Reader, in making your purchases, do not overlook this fact.

A Rat Hole.—Advertising in asubscriberless and little read paper is not unliking to pouring water into a rat hole—of little consequence and devoid of results.

A FELLOW named Huff cut out all his relatives in his will, yet the interrogation, "What's in a name," still persists.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Truth and Quality

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing. Accordingly, it is not claimed that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is the only remedy of known value, but one of many reasons why it is the best of personal and family laxatives is the fact that it cleanses, sweetens and relieves the internal organs on which it acts without any debilitating after effects and without having to increase the quantity from time to time.

It acts pleasantly and naturally and truly as a laxative, and its component parts are known to and approved by physicians, as it is free from all objectionable substances. To get its beneficial effects always purchase the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

SONOMA, SEPT. 12, 1908.

Official Paper of Sonoma.

A Pleasing Outlook.

Notwithstanding the fact that while other localities are bewailing the existence of hard times, etc., Sonoma, old Sonoma, familiarly speaking, is going ahead with that degree of certainty that is a source of pleasure to the newcomer, and one of deep gratification to the older residenter. Many schemes for the betterment of the town are in progress, and more are centemplated, the promoters of which are not those who sit by a warm fireside on a cold winter's evening and tell what they are going to do, but those who get out in all kinds of weather, and work from dawn till nightfall, and often thereafter, in the interest of the locality in which they reside, and all that is required to insure an earlier and more complete realization of the results that will eventually follow, is the concerted action of all, and the reaction will be surprising, aye, even beyond the expectations of the most sanguine.

In Sonoma, as in every other locality, there are two classes of people—the well-wisher and the knocker—the former striving to build up, and the latter, to knock out all the good work accomplished, who, in our estimation resemble, very much resemble, the flea-inhabited canine, and for whose especial benefit we would quote from David Harum, who states: "That a reasonable amount of fleas is good for a dog; they keep him broodin' over the fact of his bein' a dog."

Aside from being the ideal spot of the home-seeker, there are abundant chances for the capitalist and speculator—there being plenty of good available land—held at a nominal figure, and idle capital, not reluctant to take advantage of such opportunities, is fast unloosening its purse-strings to invest in the same.

Many newcomers have recently located here, and more are coming; for, is not this a land where summer never dies, but only becomes weary, and after resting a little while, comes again with renewed vigor; where almost every house-garden is a veritable paradise, owing to the rich and rare flora therein contained, with hummingbirds darting and flashing in the sunlight; where all the hot-house plants of the East are grown profusely and in the open; where the cacti, sweet pea and calla lily grow side-by-side harmoniously, and in one bed; where all the citrus fruit of the tropical zone are successfully grown, with their golden and silvered globes everywhere in evidence; where Christmas festivites are kept 'midst myriad roses, instead of snow and ice, as in the East; where birds of rich plumage and rare song, charm the day, and often the night, with their sweet notes. As surely as bees find the honeysuckle, so surely will the better class of immigration flow, and with ever increasing numbers, into this superbly favored section of our Golden State.

Will Remain Here.

One of our local characters about town, who had on various occasions, signified his intention of emigrating to the gold fields of Nevada, must have underwent a change of heart, for on a recent occasion he was heard to utter:

"Many will go to the gold-fields, at an early date, they say,
While they are toiling and sweating in the mines away out there,
I will plod along, in my usual way, without one thought of care;
And when the Angel Gabriel, his great big horn he toots,
I will be prepared to "pass in my checks," divested of hat and boots."

FAST RACES HERE ON THE NINTH.

They Were the Best Ever Trotted or Run on Sonoma Race Course.

The races given here on Admission Day were the best ever run on the Sonoma Driving Club's race course.

There were six events on the racing card and all were fast and exciting.

The first race was for horses in the 2:30 class, in which Hello Girl, owned by Jas. F. Tate and driven by Joe Ryan, won in two straight heats. Best time, 2:27. Don Fraser, owned by D. McGovern, was the other horse entered in this race.

The next event was a free-for-all trotting race, in which Lady Falirose, owned by T. Corcoran, Kitty D., owned by A. Hoffman and L. Marisch's Little Dick tried conclusions. This race was won by Kitty D., driven by Joe Ryan, in two straight heats, in the remarkable fast time of 2:11¼ and 2:14½, the speediest ever recorded on the Sonoma race course

There were five starters in the road race trotting event, which was won by James Cowan's Maude Wilke's.

The 2:40 trotting race was an exciting one. Five horses went under the wire in this race, which was won by Mike C., owned by M. E. Cummings and driven by Joe Ryan.

Agreeably Surprised.

Ever since the edict went into effect prohibiting the sale of liquors at the railroad stations along their line of transit, it has been the custom of those bibulously inclined to carry the prohibited article in flasks or other receptacles while en route, and it was owing to this that a representative of the INDEX-TRIBUNE was a witness to an amusing transaction on a recent occasion.

Just as the evening train pulled in at this depot, one of two gentlemen seated in the smoker, produced a flask of the dew that has made Kentucky famous, (with a drinking attachment), and pouring out a generous drink, handed it to his companion, who held it up for a moment, and then, probably remembering a promise made to his best girl not to imbibe while en route, threw the contents of the glass out of the open window and full into the face of one of the numerous genus hobo that had there gathered.

"Gee whiz, but that was fine," exclaimed the surprised one; and it came like a remittance from home. "Sonoma is all right, and I intend to remain here and take in every train that pulls in at this station."

Died in Arizona

Foster S. Dennis, a brother-in-law of Chas. Stuart, a former resident of this valley, died at Kingman, Arizona, last Saturday. The deceased leaves a wife and two young lady daughters, who, with Mr. Stuart, accompanied the remains to this place, and had them interred in the family burial plot in Mountain Cemetery yesterday.

Mr. Dennis, who was a prominent mining man of Arizona, married Miss Stuart, of this valley, years ago.

To Resume Business.

The old Grossoni Winery, which has been idle for the past fifteen years, has been entirely remodeled and fitted up, and will resume business in about two weeks. G. Della Morte, recently from Santa Rosa, where he was identified with the Nevada Wine and Distilling Company, has assumed control of the business. Sonoma grapes are to be used exclusively in the manufacture of wines. The re-established winery will have a capacity of 25,000 gallons.

HORSE AND BUGGY GO OVER BRIDGE.

Mrs. Thos. Daly's Thrilling Experience and Miraculous Escape From Death.

Mrs. Thomas Daly and Mrs. Wm. H. Daly of San Francisco, who came up on last Tuesday's Northwestern Pacific's train to take in the Ninth of September celebration here and to spend a few days on the Daly ranch one mile east of town, had a most thrilling experience and one, too, that they will not soon forget.

Upon arriving at Buena Vista station they left the cars with their two children and were met by Mr. Wm. Daly and Jack Kelly, who were awaiting them with two light buggies to drive them to the ranch house. The ladies took a seat in the latter's vehicle while the children were placed in the former's rig. Arriving at the "red gate," the entrance to the Daly farm, Mr. Kelly, who was in the lead, alighted and opened the same and both vehicles passed through. As the buggy in which the ladies were seated came to a halt on the bridge which spans Buena Vista creek at that point, one of the lines got under the horse's trail and the animal became unmanageable and commencing backing. In an instant the buggy was forced backward over the bridge, where it poised for a second. At this juncture Mrs. Wm. Daly sprang from the vehicle and landed on the bridge, but her companion was not quick enough to follow her, and with the struggling horse and swaying buggy plunged to the rocky bed of the creek ten feet below.

The gentlemen, who had rushed to her assistance, found Mrs. Daly lying unconscious amid the ruins of the wrecked buggy with the struggling horse all but on top of her. Freeing himself from what was left of the demolished vehicle the horse struggled to his feet and ran away. In the meantime the unconscious woman had been lifted up and carried to the banks of the creek where after being laid down and restoratives applied she soon revived.

It was then discovered that no bones were broken but Mrs. Daly's body was one mass of bruises and abrasions and one of her ankles sprained. That she was not killed or maimed was truly marvelous.

Notwithstanding her injuries, which were very painful, Mrs. Daly drove into town the next day and viewed the parade and took in the dedication ceremonies of Sonoma's New City Hall.

Fooled the Mosquitoes.

Gus Hooligan, (no relation to the original Happy), who has been employed with Messrs. Cummins and Callahan in their work on the Della Morte winery, together with those two gentlemen, departed on Tuesday evening's train for the city by the Golden Gate, where, in all probability, he celebrated the ninth in a befitting style.

Gus, while here, imagined that the mosquitoes bothered him, and had considerable to say concerning the same; but one morning he came from his room in the Swiss Hotel and related a story to landlord J. Buletti as to how he had fooled them. Inquiry as to how he did it, elicited the answer from the happy-go-lucky Swede that he had simply transferred positions in bed—his head at the foot, and his feet—(No. 10's), at the head. The mosquitoes good (scents) was conceded by all.

Sonoma's Celebration On Admission Day.

"A hot time in the old town!" That is descriptive of the rousing reception accorded to the hundreds of visitors who came to celebrate with Sonoma on Admission Day, for the day was of summer's responsive temperature, and the welcome the warmest a city could give its people and their friends. It was fitting that the new city hall should be so dedicated on this day when patriotism burns bright in the hearts of daughters and sons and adopted children of the Golden State, for on the very ground where Sonoma has builded this handsome modern structure for municipal use were enacted scenes ever to be cherished by the descendants of the state's founders.

To the balmy breeze of the warm September day of 1908 was flung the old Bear flag which was the forerunner of the prosperity and prestige we now enjoy, over a scene vastly different from that of sixty-two years ago, but over the valley as beautiful then as now. Wednesday's flag raising was "pretty poetry," that in which Henry Beeson participated—rugged reality Beeson was here with us for the celebrating of the event, and raised the flag which has made him famous.

Among the witnesses of the beautiful ceremony was also Dr. Vallejo, who, when a boy five years of age, stood upon one corner of the cloth which was being painted for the bear flag, and who well remembers the crack he received on the foot with a paint brush from one of the gruff enthusiasts at work on the emblem. In the crowd were many descendants of the gallant Vallejo, and many of the State's oldest pioneers.

After the flag-raising the parade was formed, and the line of march around the historic plaza made a picture long to be remembered. It was led by Grand Marshal Arthur Landsborough and a number of aides. The Petaluma band and the carriages containing the officers of the day, city trustees and Board of Supervisors came next, followed by the automobile containing the three noted pioneers, who assisted in the raising of the Bear Flag

Headed by their drum and bugle corps marched the members of the Santa Rosa Native Sons in their natty white suits and gold waist sashes. Sebastopol and Glen Ellen Parlors, in showy regalia, walked next, and then came Sonoma Parlor, whose members made a splendid showing in the neatest of white suits and golden regalia.

It was fitting that General Vallejo's ancient carriage of state should be given a place of honor in the parade. As a centerpiece for the cluster of white flowers and greenery the seat of the vehicle held the General's picture. The carriage was drawn by four white horses, and at their heads were two grandsons of General Vallejo, C. and R. Emparan, acting as grooms, with Messrs. Kiser and Pauli.

One of the most notable entries in the parade was the float on which Miss Marie Valenti rode as "California," with A. J. Van Hoosear as "Uncle Sam," representing the reception of California into the Union. The float was handsomely garlanded in yellow and white.

"The Days of '49" on 'Flapjack Gulch' was realistically depicted in the attractive float entered by the Dunbar School District, of which Miss Norvella Maude Davidson is teacher.

The display of the Sonoma Valley Union High School was a beautiful one. It was a "Valley of the Moon" float, and the idea was most artistically carried out.

The gunboat float, "Cruiser California," came in for a full share of attention and its presence was the occasion of much cheering en route. It was mounted on four bicycles.

A large bevy of school children from the Sonoma grammar school, all radiant in summer costume, rode in the bicycle division.

The Woodmen of the World had a symbolic display in the form of a huge axe resting on a block of wood. It was a very neat representation.

Miss Viola Hansen and Earl Linderman rode in a gaily decorated pony cart. It was the entry of the Oak Grove resort. Master Henry Van Amringe road in a miniature carriage drawn by a goat, and was made much of.

"Old Sonoma," a graphic representation of an emigrant train, with wagon, outriders, cow, and everything else to recall the old days, was a great hit. It was entered by the Woman's Improvement Club, and those who designed and carried out the plan are certainly to be congratulated. The "New Sonoma" was also represented by the club in a handsomely adorned automobile, all in red, driven by Robert P. Hill, in which rode the principal officers of the Sonoma Valley Improvement Club, Mrs. Robert A Poppe, president; Mrs. P. N. Stofen, first vice president; Mrs. Wagnon, secretary, and Mrs. Woodworth, treasurer. The automobile was trimmed with flowers, and the ladies carried parasols. Four daity misses, dressed in red and carrying parasols, caught up the ends of ribbon garlands from the car and walked beside it, acting as escort. They were the Misses Ramona Granice Nancy Bates, Ethel Rogers and Myrtle Hardy.

The Agua Caliente Springs, Theodor Richards, proprietor, made a fine display, in which the famous waters from the springs figured, and carried off one of the first prizes.

Boyes Hot Springs, El Verano Villa, Sonoma Grove and some of the other Sonoma Valley resorts, were all represented with neat vehicles. El Verano Villa's design was an ideal picnic scene.

The automobile division had a number of very prettily decorated turnouts that reflected much taste in execution of detail. Notable were those of Mr. and Mrs. Simmons and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lewis.

The formal literary exercises of the day were opened with an address by Mayor Geo. Breitenbach, who, in cordial style, bade the visitors welcome.

F. T. Duhring followed, and in his happy vein outlined the purpose of the celebration and repeated the warm sentiment expressed by the Mayor.

Ex-Mayor Phelan, of San Francisco, orator of the day, was next introduced. He paid a beautiful tribute to our soil, wherein the old regime was united with the new through the kindly offices of "that able gentleman, General Vallejo." He denounced his arrest in 1846, and explained that the hasty action of the impetuous spirits which precipitated the event was due not to lawlessness, but to a desire to become citizens, instead of subjects. He dwelt on Vallejo's friendship and ultimate help to the Americans at Monterey. Mr. Phelan traced California's beginning, from the time of Spanish legends which sing of the promised land and brought in Joaquin Miller's humorous saying that "California was so remote that a man might drop dead here and God not know it." He followed our ultimate discovery and development, and admonished the citizens to preserve all the traditions and relics of the past. His frank statement in regard to the need of improving the plaza were roundly applauded, as were also his glowing tribute to woman's work of improvement and beauty. His allusion to the but of California history made famous in Gertrude Atherton's "Resenoff," lent much charm to his speech. He closed with reference to San Francisco's struggle for civic purity and complimented Sonoma's city hall of graitless origin and completion.

Mrs. Emparan closed the program with the beautiful ballad, "In Dear Old California's Sunny Dells."

After the exercises the barbecue was held, and hundreds of visitors partook of the generous repast.

The races, band concert and receptions of the Native Sons of Sonoma and Glen Ellen kept the crowd amused until evening, when the grand ball took place. Beautiful gowns and pretty girls, good partners and a long program of dances were features of the dance. There was a sumptuous repast at the Union Hotel.

The day was a gala one from start to finish, which was due in a great measure to Mayor Breitenbach and the committees serving under him.

A Literary Visitor.

Among the visitors of note here on Wednesday was Anna B Reed, editress and manager of the Northern Crown, published at Ukiah. Mrs. Reed has been an earnest worker for the State's promotion, and was the circulator of a paper which led to the $10,000 appropriation by San Francisco for a World's Fair exhibit at Chicago. She has the original signatures of Adolph Sutro, Jas. G. Fair, Leland Stanford, Lloyd Tevis and other well-known Californians on the petition which she circulated, and it is the only record of the San Francisco Supervisors known to have not perished in the big fire of April 18th, 1906. Mrs. Reed is a writer of note, and her poetical tributes to Garfield and Grant were acknowledged by the widows of those great men in heartfelt letters, which the recipient treasures among her many collections.

Do You Feel Chilly, Then Feverish and Ache all Over?

Feel Worn-out, Blue and Tired? Have You a Fresh Cold, With Frequent Hacking Cough? Sensation of Soreness in the Chest or Back?

Don't let your case run into bronchitis, or some other obstinate and dangerous malady. The very best medicine to take in such a case is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Made without alcohol or dangerous drugs, it contains that rare combination of native medicinal roots that will allay a cough (iron it out, as it were), restore the circulation, assist the appetite and digestion, and consequently restore tone to the entire system. That is the reason people look happy once more after taking it—they feel like living, because their liver is active, the blood in their arteries is full of that life-giving quality—rich, red blood. The blood in turn feeds the nerves.

Nervousness and neuralgia are only the indication that the nerves are not fed on invigorating blood. This "Medical Discovery" of Dr. Pierce is nature's own restorer. It tones up the organism and invigorates its functions, furnishing to the body one of its necessary constituent principles of which it is in need.

This preparation is of pleasant taste, agrees perfectly with rebellious and sensitive stomachs, and is extremely effective in restoring tone and vigor to the entire system. It cures troubles of the stomach and at the same time the blood-vessels are given such a toning up as to throw off a cold. One very good reason why it restores the health of run-down, pale and emaciated people is because it first throws out the poisons through the liver and kidneys. It then begins its reconstructive work in building up flesh and making good, rich, red blood.

"I have been a sufferer from indigestion for some thirty years, at times," writes Mr. S. W. Mallheaux, of Circleville, W. Va., "and have used medicine from several of our best physicians, which gave me only a little temporary relief. They said I could never be cured. Last winter I was stricken with the worst spell that I ever had. I suffered with such severe pains in the pit of my stomach that I could neither work nor sleep, and my weight went down from one hundred and ninety-five pounds to one hundred and sixty pounds in about two months' time. I then concluded that I would try Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. By the time the first bottle was gone, I felt some relief from my severe suffering so continued until I had used four bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I am truly thankful for the great benefit which I have received from your medicine, and can cordially recommend it to others."

It Stands Alone not only in respect to its ingredients but also as the only medicine for stomach liver and blood disorders, which absolutely CONTAINS PURELY VEGETABLE AND PERFECTLY HARMLESS INGREDIENTS, WITH NO ALCOHOL.

It Stands Alone as the best alterative medicine, the makers of which take their patients fully into their confidence and tell them exactly what they are taking. This Dr. Pierce can afford to do, because his "GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY" is made of such ingredients and after a working formula that has thousands of cures to its credit placing its merits above criticism.

It Stands Alone as Nature's cure for many chronic diseases and its ingredients are: Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot, Mandrake root and chemically pure glycerine.

Remember, these are the ONLY ORIGINAL Little Liver Pills Pleasant Pellets ever put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago, and although much imitated, have never been equaled. Made of concentrated and refined medicinal principles, extracted from native American plants and roots, therefore purely vegetable and perfectly harmless. One little Pellet for a stomachic, or stomach and bowel regulator, three tiny granules for a cathartic.

NEW PLAZA FUND SCHEME ON FOOT.

Proposition to Raise Four Thousand Dollars to Beautify Our Plaza.

The Sonoma Parlor of Native Sons have taken up a proposition to raise a fund of $4,000 for the beautifying of Sonoma's historical Plaza. The idea of our Native Sons is to raise the sum of $2,000 on the sale of pictures taken of Henry Beeson, the only surviving member of the Bear Flag party, while in the act of raising that flag on Admission Day, 1908, to the masthead of the original flagstaff on the Sonoma Plaza after an interval of 62 years when he and his fellow adventurers first flung it to the breezes in 1846.

When the $2,000 shall have been raised from the sale of the pictures, which have been copyrighted, the money will be placed in the Sonoma Valley Bank, and when an equal sum is forthcoming from other sources the entire amount will be placed to the credit of the Plaza fund of the municipality.

FUNDS CONTRIBUTED TO CELEBRATION.

J. K. Bigelow of Finance Committee Will Publish Report Next Week.

J. K. Bigelow, chairman of the finance committee of the Ninth of September celebration, announces that his report of the receipts and expenditures of the committee will be published in these columns next week. The report will show that the subscription was the largest ever collected in this valley for a public celebration.

Sonoma, Sonoma County, Cal., September 12, 1908

STORY OF THE FLOOD

One of the Strange Legends of the Yuma Indians.

CAUSE OF THE GREAT STORM.

The Tipping Up of the Earth Caused the Deluge Which Engulfed the World—The Mysterious Ark and the Escape of the Chosen Few.

To this day the great deluge recorded in the Bible is a mystery to the North American Indian. He will not be led to believe that the flood was brought about by the sins of man. He is equally unwilling to believe that it was the work of an angry God, as he could not see how the Almighty should be so unjust as to punish the Indians of America for the naughty things of a race of people across the ocean. Another reason which makes it still more difficult for the Indian to believe that the flood was a punishment to the world is the fact that with him there is no sin. In his language there is no such word, nor does he expect to be punished for any of his acts.

But though there is no equivalent to the word sin in the Indian language (nor in the Indian mind until the Christians came), the Indians have their philosophy in regard to what is commonly so termed. Some of their teachers (most of whom claimed to have been taught the philosophy of life and its laws directly by disembodied spirits or by ethereal beings from other planets) taught that as man lives here so is his life hereafter. If he is quarrelsome or warlike here, so he will be in the more spiritual life. If he is serene and contented here, so he will be there, etc.

The deluge, as described by the few who were miraculously saved, was the more grandly terrible in that it came on suddenly. From the highlands occupied by the Indians they saw the waves of the sea sweep in upon the land and recede, only to advance with immensely increased volume and stupendously huge breakers. Then there came a terrific storm that seemed to blow from all and in all directions. The storm caused huge waterspouts which appeared over the wild ocean as far as the eye could see. The terrified people fled to the mountains, but these were all soon to be submerged, with the exception of one. This mountain which alone remained uncovered by the flood is called Avee-heilah (Mountain of the Moon), yet today it is not a very high mountain.

For awhile before the mountains became submerged there was a great calm, and a dense fog covered the earth. Then suddenly a mighty boat appeared to the awed view of the Indians. It approached and stopped at the several mountains still uncovered by the waters, and at each point where it touched, as if guided by invisible intelligence, the Indians, as if obeying an unspoken but potent command, entered the boat.

The boat rested first at a place called Avee-qua-lul (mountain peak), now Pilot Knob, on the border of Mexico. There was a mesa on the top of this mountain, though at this day it does not exist, and on this mesa the Indians first celebrated their delivery. This they did by playing sacred games, chanting sacred songs, etc. On rocks at the foot of this peak there are hieroglyphics in an unknown language, which some of the Indians believe were made by those who survived the flood.

Petrified driftwood is still to be seen two-thirds the distance up the sides of Avee-heilah, which drift, the Indians say, was deposited by the waves of the great flood.

The Indians, having rested for a time on the mountain peak, again entered the boat and were carried eastward, eventually to a small valley. Here they again rested, and then, leaving the boat, they wandered from one place to another, after a time returning to the valley. To their surprise, the boat was gone. It could not have floated away, for the land was dry whereon they had left it, the flood having subsided after a great calm of its waters. The boat could not have crumbled to pieces, for there had not been time for its decay. They could only conclude that the mysterious boat, having fulfilled its mission of preserving a few of their race, had disappeared as miraculously as it had appeared.

The spot where the mysterious boat, or ark, had rested was marked by the Indians placing there a huge log. They called the place Qual-jo-para (boat's resting place). This spot is held sacred by the Indians, who will seldom point it out to strangers. Not many hundred years ago, it is said, some Indian warriors were passing the spot, and one of them to show his skepticism shot an arrow into the side of the great log. Immediately a stream of blood gushed from the spot pierced, and the skeptic fell dead. The story of the event was carried to all the near tribes, and since then Indians passing the place fear to even look leisurely at the log.

A reason given by the Indians as the probable cause of the flood was that there was a tribe of Indians who, like Columbus, believed that the earth was not flat, but round, and to prove whether this theory were true thousands from the different tribes banded together and started out on a journey to find the edge of the earth if it was flat. The flood occurred soon after the Indians started on this journey, so that they really believed that those adventurous had reached the edge of the earth and their weight had tipped the earth to such an extent as to cause the water to rush in on the land.—Los Angeles Times.

Peppermint and Tobacco.

If you have a boy who has begun smoking too early and whom you wish to cure of the habit, feed him peppermints. Dr. O. Clayton Jones of Silverton, England, writing in the London Lancet, is authority for this simple cure. Dr. Jones writes: "To break the smoking habit in a youth there is nothing better than peppermint drops. He cannot smoke with a 'bullseye' in his mouth, and even for some time after it is dissolved tobacco will not blend kindly with the taste that remains. Socially the cure may seem worse than the disease, but from a medical point of view the sucking of peppermints is far less hurtful. A common 'bullseye' will prevent smoking for nearly an hour, so the amount of sweets used need not be great."

His Discharge.

A soldier was seen in the trenches holding his hands above the earthworks. His captain asked:

"What are you doing that for, Pat?"

He replied, with a grin, as he worked his fingers:

"I'm feeling for a furlough, sir."

Just then a rifle ball struck his arm just below the wrist. Then a queer expression of pain and humor passed over his face as he exclaimed:

"And faith it's a discharge."—London Answers.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

THE FISH IN HIS BED.

Funny Climax to an Angling Experience of General Gallifet.

Long ago, in the days of the second empire, General Gallifet was the aide-de-camp of Napoleon III. At St. Cloud his quarters were just over the imperial bedroom. Everything around him was very grand and very gloomy. The window of his room looked upon a pond that washed the walls of the palace. The water was clear and the surrounding scenery was beautiful, but the young lieutenant felt like a prisoner. Early one morning, while seated at his window trying to drive away the blues with a cigar, he espied below in the crystal water an enormous carp. The instinct of the angler strong in Gallifet, made the young man's eyes snap and set his heart throbbing.

The big fish was the private property of the emperor. Consequently for Gallifet it was forbidden fish. But it was such a fine fellow! The resistance of the soldier's conscience was useless. It surrendered unconditionally. The remaining part of the campaign against the carp was simple enough. Gallifet went to his trunk, brought out his trusty line, to which he fastened a hook and an artificial bait. With his accustomed skill he cast his line. The carp was hooked and hauled in through the window.

Here the lieutenant's fun ended and his trouble began. The fish, landed upon a table, overturned a large globe filled with water and caromed from that to a magnificent vase, which it also upset and smashed to pieces upon the floor. Then it began to execute a genuine pas de carpe among the smithereens.

The emperor, hearing the strange racket overhead and seeing the water trickling through the ceiling, was astonished. He rushed upstairs to find out what was the matter. Gallifet heard him coming and endeavored to grab the carp and throw it out of the window and thus destroy the evidence of his poaching in the imperial pond. But the slippery thing was hard to hold, so he tossed it into a bed and covered it up with the bedclothes. When the emperor entered the room, he noticed immediately the quivering bedclothes. He pulled them down and uncovered the floundering fish. His majesty's face assumed an almost jimjamic expression, which gradually faded into a faint smile. He took in the entire situation, saluted and left the future war minister to meditate upon the mysteries of a fisherman's luck.

The Wrong Bird.

One of the well known magicians not along ago had a queer experience, but the people in the theater had more fun out of it than he did. One of his tricks was to shake a sack to show that it was empty and then to draw out of it an egg, after which he would always reach in again and bring out the hen that laid the egg. Of course he had to have help in this, and one night he had a new man who did everything just as he had been told until it came to this act. Reaching into the bag, he drew forth the fowl at the usual time but instead of the hen an old rooster hopped down on to the stage, ruffled its feathers and strutted around, crowing with all its might, while the audience laughed and the magician went out to hunt his new helper.—London Opinion.

Had Experience.

Not long ago there entered the office of the superintendent of a trolley line in Detroit an angry citizen demanding justice in no uncertain terms.

In response to the official's gentle inquiry touching the cause of the demand the angry citizen explained that on the day previous as his wife was boarding one of the company's cars the conductor thereof had stepped on his spouse's dress, tearing from it more than a yard of material.

"I can't see that we are to blame for that," protested the superintendent. "What do you expect us to do—get her a new dress?"

"No, sir, I do not," rejoined the angry citizen, brandishing a piece of cloth. "What I propose is that you people shall match this material."—Harper's.

Why, Indeed?

The five-year-old son was asking his father some severe questions about a recent addition to the family.

"That baby likes ma," said the youngster sharply.

"Oh, yes, he likes your ma," said his father, "but he likes me too."

Thereupon the five-year-old from whom great things were expected exclaimed:

"Likes you? Then why does he cry when he looks at you?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Necessity the Mother.

"Who got up those hanging gardens of Babylon?"

"Some king."

"For what purpose?"

"I judge he wanted to outwit the neighbors' chickens."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Always Tired.

Political Candidate—Which way do the farm hands lean around here? Farmer Rye-top—Well, stranger, around plowing and planting time you will see them leaning against the barn or fence every time your back is turned.—Deseret News.

Expensive.

"I should never have thought that studying would have cost so much money."

"Yes, father, and if you only knew how little I have studied!"—Judge.
